Get set for the changes kids can make in twelve years.

Watch that step, Dianne Briskey. It's such a big one for a kindergartner.

Kenneth Nafziger, the perfect little gentleman, ties Yvonne Rupp's bow, but Monica Rupp must fix her own. George Nafziger and Bruce Beck are eager to get home in time to see the noon cartoon.

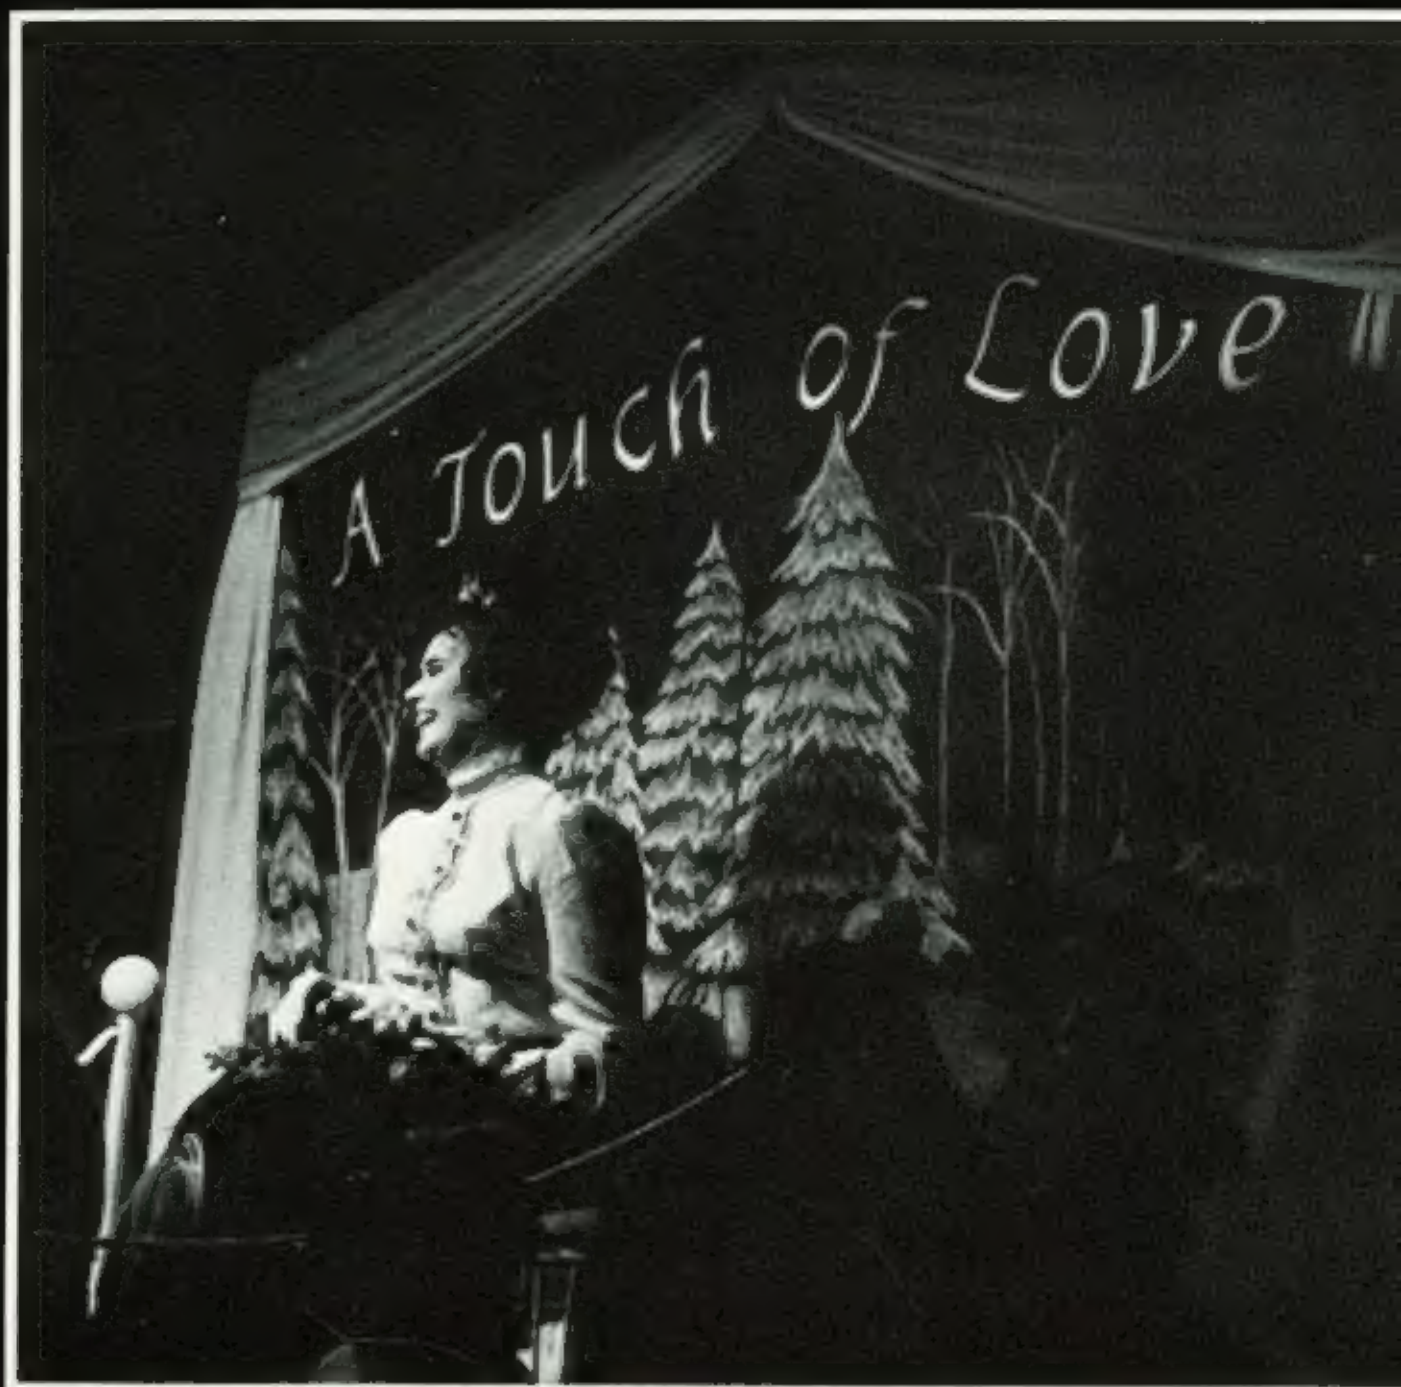

Danny Yoder, Nathan Baer, Randy Grieser,
Mike Leininger and Jerry King once enjoyed playing with their cars and trucks.

There are various uses for the mouth. Carlos Estrada, as a kindergartner, demonstrates the nicest—a smile.

The class of 1972 stayed in the spotlight from kindergarten to senior year. Chris Rupp and George Nafziger started them out as flower girl and crown bearer for the homecoming of 1960.

Fifth grade presents western conflict

A small town in Colorado in the early mining days was the setting of "The Saga of Dead Dog Gulch", the fifth grade operetta. Everything was in an uproar because the ladies of the town were trying to beautify Dead Dog. The cowboys, thinking Dead Dog would be a pushover, planned to take over the town. The kids of the town changed the cowboys' plans by stealing their guns and hiding their clothes while they slept. The ladies, thinking their husbands had saved them, decided to stop beautifying the town and fix the men a good breakfast. The cowboys decided to settle down and live peacefully. The kids were happy to see the town return to normal.

Varsity show their power

Once again the scrappy Blackbirds met their foes and gave Pettisville another winning season on the basketball court. As in previous years, the Blackbirds were lacking in height and a welcome addition to the team was 6' 2" junior forward Jack Oyer. With his height and the experience of the two returning starters, 6' 1" senior center Dave Nofziger, and 6' 0" senior forward Steve Miller, the Birds were able to get many second shots which helped them greatly in compiling their 11 wins over 8 losses. Rounding out the fearless five were the sharpshooting senior guards Len Nafziger and Ken Nafziger.

The highlight of the 1971-72 season came early, as the Birds defeated the Delta Panthers by hitting an incredible 70% from the field. Delta later became the district runners-up in the class AA tournament.

In tournament action the Bird's first game was with the tenth ranked class A team in the state, Ottawa Hills. After playing perhaps their best game of the season, the Birds ended just 5 points shy of all hope for an upset. Congratulations, Blackbirds, on another fine season.

Tournament Games

This year the Pettisville varsity baseball team was young and inexperienced as only four lettermen returned from last year's team. They made up for this by hustle and desire and finished the year with a 9 wins and 7 losses record. There will be ten lettermen returning next year, so Coach Dave Ripke is hoping for a good season.

After beating the North Central Eagles in the first game of tournament action, the Blackbirds were beaten in the Sectional final by the Montpelier Locomotives. So all in all it looks as if Pettisville Blackbird Baseball is on the upswing again.
